

Sicilians in North America Unite Through New Organization

THE MEMBERS OF THE CONFEDERAZIONE SICILIANI NORD (NORTH) AMERICA

The Sicilian community in North America has taken a major step toward unification and cooperation through the formation of the Confederazione Siciliani dei Nord America (CSNA). The organization is comprised of influential members of Sicilian-based communities from Canada to California to New Orleans to New York City.

"Promotion of our heritage and culture is paramount," says Vincenzo Arcobelli of Dallas, Texas, the CSNA's first president. "Our people have made great contributions to America and Canada that must never be forgotten."

The CSNA will serve to foster the spirit and identity of those who share Sicilian heritage, as well as to promote and protect the heritage and culture of the island of Sicily and its inhabitants.

The officers of this newly formed, prestigious organization are: Vincenzo Arcobelli,

President; Tony DiPiazza, Executive Vice President in the United States; Antonio Sciascia, Executive Vice President in Montreal; Avv. Antonio Rollo, General Consul; Paolo Ribauda, Treasurer; and Augusto Sorriso, Secretary.

The Board of Directors includes Marco Cangialosi, Chairman, supported by Vice Chairs Angelo Balsamo and Alfonso Caradonna.

CSNA plans to host its first annual awards gala on Saturday, October 27 at the Trump Plaza in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Look for features on CSNA news and events in upcoming issues of The Italian Tribune.
